

DEPARTMENT OF ENGLISH

ABOUT US Pursue your passion for literature, creative writing, professional writing, rhetoric and composition, linguistics, English education, or film and media studies. MSU Denver English majors gain higher-level communication and digital technology skills while developing the deep cultural understanding and sensitivity that is necessary for socially responsible work.

STUDENT OPPORTUNITIES Each year, our program provides paid internships and undergraduate research assistantships. We host career-related events and activities, and our Faculty are always available to discuss your future career with you. Students can get involved in three student clubs while taking on leadership positions and our students have the chance to join the editorial team or have their work published in our student-run creative writing journal, the Roadrunner Review.

MAJOR/MINOR We offer a B.A. in English with concentrations in Literature, Film and Media Studies; Professional Writing and Rhetoric; Creative Writing; or English Education. We also offer a B.A. in Linguistics, one of only two programs offered in the State of Colorado. Our Minors, in all of these subdisciplines, can help broaden and diversify your skills, giving you a competitive edge in the job market.

SIGNATURE EVENTS We bring established authors and filmmakers to campus to speak about their craft as well as their career paths. Students are involved in organizing film screenings at the Sie FilmCenter, Denver's only year-round non-profit movie theater, presenting over 800 independent films each year. Students can also provide readings of their original work as part of our Center for Creative Writing events.
